WILL GIVE DRAMATIC ENTERTAINMENT FOR WEBSTER ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

A dramatic entertainment for the benefit of the Webster High School Athletic Association will be given in Bristol Hall to-morrow evening.

The association was recently organized. The president, Mark Moody, is principal of the Webster High School, and a Princeton graduate. He is an enthusiastic advocate of rugby football.

The present season records four victories and two tied games to the credit of the Webster team, the latest being played last Saturday with Smith Academy's second team, in which the score stood 12 to 5 in Webster's favor. The last football game of the season will be played the morning in Widmanni Field with the Manual Training first team.

The programme Friday evening consists of two short dramas. "A Set of Turquoise." by T. B. Aldrich, and "woodcocks Little Game," by J. Madison Morton. The participants, with the exception of Miss Viola Mr. Henry Corbyn of Kirkwood, are Webster persons, and are as follows: Misses Jones and Een Becker.

After the president Marcor Will be danched the participants of two bours, at which the following patronesses will preside: Mmes, Charles A. Lewis, A. B. Kauffman, L. R. Blackmer, Charles R. Siddy, Robert G. Hogan, James F. Allen, James P. Dawson, J. R. Bettis, Marshall Baker, Anna C. Hillman, Robert McCormfek Adams and Alexander Penny.

The Marshal was interrupted by a woman who announced nerself as Mrs. Calkins of St. Louis, representing the Golden Chain Humane Bociety.

"I am very giad to see you, Marshal." she said, "because I understand that you are the one public official in Kansas City who will do his duty and stop this builting they are advertising."

"What do the Police Commissioners say?" the Marshal asked her.

She shrugged her shoulders and said they, too, were not giving satafactory answers.

"But you will stop it, won't you?" she added.

"But you will stop it, won't you?" she added.
"I don't know. It depends on whether they violate the law.
"Why don't you get out an injunction?" the Marshal suggested.
"We tried that in St. Louis, but the Judges there are a lot of weaklings, and said they could not enjoin a misdemeanor. In St. Louis," Mrs. Calkins continued, "the prosecutor's assistants are not any good, but we stopped the light by notifying the Police Commissioners that we would lay the matter before the Grand Jury.
"The fight was to be on Sunday there, wasn't it?"
"Yes."
"That made a difference."
Mrs.-Calkins still insisted on the Marshal stopping the exhibition. Finally the Marshal said: "Madam, the Sheriff and I will not jeopardize our bonds by attempting to use power that we don't have under the law."

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Washington, Nov. 65.—Supervising Architect Taylor said to-day that no decision has been reached in regard to the location of the new Post Office at St. Louis. Mr. Taylor thinks this matter will not be decided for some weeks. It seems likely that the site chosen will depend on some further investigation or the receipt of some further arguments yet to be submitted by the St. Louis Congressmen and others, as the department is apparently no nearer a settlement of the matter than it has been for some weeks. It is known that the department thinks well of the site at Twenty-first and Market streets, but it cannot be learned at present whether that will be the one finally decided upon. The matter promises to be held in abeyance until Representatives Jcy and Bartholdt have reached the city and all the arguments pro and con from local interests have been considered. FAREWELL TO EDW. FREEGOOD.

The funeral of James J. Johnson took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from St. Teresa's Catholic Church, No. 2411 North Grand avenue. The sermon was preached by the Reverend Father J. A. Conley, and the burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Johnson was at different times connected with various St. Louis newspapers, but secently had been a stenographer at the World's Fair. Many floral tricutes were received. Among those sending them were: Byron O'Reilly, Andrew Parle, John R. Slevin, John R. Fontana, Joseph Furling, C. W. Seiph, and the stenographers of the World's Fair Among those who were present at the funeral were: Henry Orpen, R. T. Bradley, William Corooran and W. F. "The man, who was German to the core, who lived always only for others and for the welfare of the Fatherland, and, above all, for his own workman, had his honor assailed.

"this deed, with its consequences, is nothing less than murger, for there is no difference between him who mixes and presents a poisonous draugh to another, and him who, from the safe sheater of his editorial sanctum, with the poisoned darts of his slanders, robs his fellow-man of his honorable name and kills him by the mental tortures he inflicts.

"Who were they that committed this shameful act upon our friend? Men who hitherto had passed as Germans, but are now unworthy of tills name; men sprung from that class of the labor population which owes so infinitely much to Herr Krupp, and of which class thousands today in the streets of Essen bowed their last farewell with weeping eyes to the coffin of their benefactor."

APPEAL TO MEN.

"You, Krupp workmen, have always kept loyal to your employer, and have stuck to him in your hearts. With gratitude not unmixed with pride I have seen the name of our German fatherland exalted everywhere abroad by the work of your hands.

"Men who want to be leaders of the German workers have robbed you of your dear master. It lies with you to defend and preserve the honor of your master, and shield his memory from defamation.

"I am confident that you will find the right way to demonstrate clearly and tangibly to the German working world that in the future it will be out of the question for honest, honor-loving German workmen, whose escutcheon has been stained, to hold any community or relationship with the authors of this shameful deed. He who does not cut himself off from these people will upon his head.

"I am confident," concluded his Majesty, "that the German workmen are fully imbued with a sense of gravity of the present moment, and that as German men they will find a solution for this question." APPEAL TO MEN.

The prizes in the coupon-clipping contest of the St. Louis House Furnishing Company. Nos. 392-4-5 Franklin avenue, were awarded yesterday.

Tuesday, while the coupons were being counted in the main show windows of the furniture emporium by six newspaper men, a throng of children and their parents blocked the sidewalk in front of the store eager to catch a glimpse of the judges at work.

They finally announced Miss Alma Mueller of No. 1444', Mad son street had won the handsome Buck's Brilliant range, valued at 59. Miss Cella Higgins of No. 3345 Manchester avenue won the Golden Oak Chiffonier; Mrs. M. Nelson of No. 1462 Wash street won the parlor lamp. The girl's gold watch was won by Miss Fannie Long of No. 3003 North Market street. Joe Gregory of No. 1507 Cellins street won the boys' gold watch.

Coupons were received from persons in twelve States. The coupons were published in the daily newspapers each day for six weeks and the firm received several million coupons.

All those who competed in the clipping contest will be awarded a handsome souvenir for their pains by calling at the store.

The house furnishing company feels that everyone should be rewarded for their pains and will inaugurate a coupon scheme next Monday, giving all who enter the contest a handsome Atlas of the world free of charge.

"Different schools of medicine contend with each other on vital questions, and as long as the contest continues with reason it cannot be said that the right of either as above the other has been demonstrated. But, if either school would convince us that it is right or even that it is entitled to be recognized as a contestant, it must appeal to our intelligence and discuss subjects on a basis of natural laws. It was notorious here that boodle was being extracted from the Metropolitan under the old management. When, six months ago, Corrigan was put in control, instead of going to the Aldermen, the new president went to the people and ignored the Aldermen.
